

Alarmed

You are fully convinced of the reality and seriousness of climate change and are already taking individual, consumer, and political action to address it.

Concerned

You are convinced that global warming is happening and a serious problem, but have not yet taken personal action.

Cautious

You believe climate change is a problem, but don't feel a sense of urgency to deal with it.

Disengaged

You haven't thought much about the issue at all, don't know much about it, but could easily change your mind about global warming.

Doubtful

You believe global warming could be happening but if it is, it is caused by natural changes in the environment. The impacts won't harm humans for many decades to come.

Dismissive

You are very sure it is not happening and are actively involved as opponents of a national effort to reduce greenhouse gas emissions.